- ## About

A second-year computer science student in Lebanese University. Venturing into the world of computer science with a hunger for learning. I am passionate about unraveling the complexities of coding and eager to absorb every bit of knowledge in this exciting field. At the start of my journey, I am on the lookout for the right place to grow and contribute. I am seeking a supportive community where I can share my enthusiasm and connect with like-minded individuals. I am excited to transform challenges into learning opportunities.
